

Assignment 3 (30 points)

In this activity, students will have a chance to create and color a flag that represents each of their own cultures.

(1) In this activity, students will create/ redesign two flags (10 points each) that share a narrative about them and their culture. 8.5" x 11" will be the dimensions that you draw your digital design on.

Be creative! Use a variety of shapes other than putting two rectangles together to represent the flags.

(2) Include the original flag(s) from your research (about your culture) and what each symbol represents.

(3) Students will *write a paragraph describing their flag and what they have incorporated within their redesigned flag.

Here are examples and suggestions that you may use to write about your flag:

- * Write the country they were born in
- * Write what culture they are (this is so students born in a foreign country but identify with another culture can have the opportunity to state what their culture is; if students identify with more than one culture, they can pick one of their own choosing to write about).
- * Describe some cultural foods
- * Write what their favorite cultural food is
- * Describe their cultural dress
- * Write some facts about their culture
- * Write their favorite thing about their culture

They will also DRAW a picture of some of their cultural food and dress.

Some ideas for the background of the flag:

- * Draw their country's flag
- * Design a flag of their own
- * Draw some cultural items to represent their heritage

> Multimedia Class - Please design it on a vector file - Adobe Illustrator, Photoshop, Vectr, Sketchbook, etc.

Requirements for submission for this assignment:

- 1. Your paragraph should be written well to describe what your (redesigned) flag looks like and what each symbol represents. (For example the color Blue represents peace, freedom, and justice in the Philippine flag).
*You may write your paragraph below.
- 2. *Attach your art/ design within this assignment as a .jpg, .pdf, .png.
*MM - Digital Arts (Use a vector program to create your flag)

Your paragraph may be written below. Please write in a readable color (not too bright):

The flag I made on the right represents the god Krishna's fight with the serpent Kaliya. Kaliya had been polluting the Yamuna River with his deadly poison; this resulted in the death of much nearby aquatic life as well as unsafe drinking conditions for people. The reason I chose this specific scene in Indian mythology is because it recounts one of the most memorable encounters with one of my favorite gods, Krishna (known for his purifying voice, kindness, and wisdom), and how passionate he was about all life, which is what I admire about him. I chose dark blue to represent the serpent because that was how it was depicted in several iterations of the story, as well as the red eyes for dramatic emphasis. I made it circle around the world with the dark green representing its suffocating poison. Krishna was in a light blue healing circle demonstrating how he fought the demon and healed the river of all its deadly poison. The flag I created on the left represents the meaning of my name, Arnav, which means "the primordial ocean." I chose to represent it with waves in front of the taj mahal because that is one of the first places I remember visiting with my grandparents in india when they were taking care of me. They taught the importance of the god Krishna, and from a young age, I grew to respect him and would constantly read stories about his feats. The colors used to create Krishna are how he was depicted in many of the stories I read.
